

Web Services Data Connection

Bringing data to your integrated justice project

The most common issue among criminal justice agencies is accessing information in an efficient manner through applications currently used.

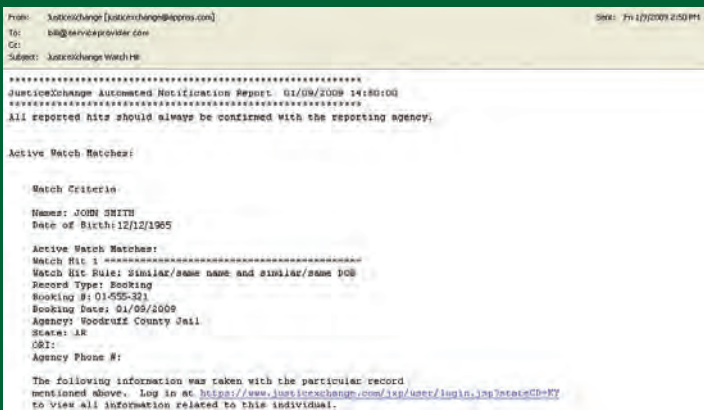

DataBridge is a Web service interface that integrates data from Appriss' national offender database, known as OffenderNet, with your state's local criminal justice systems into your current system. Through DataBridge, you can continue to use your current system while gaining access to critical data in an effective manner.

"With DataBridge, we will be able to reduce our absconder population in Florida by 10 to 12 percent annually. The watch functionality allows us to track our sex offenders daily and has reduced the man hours we spend searching. I would recommend that all law enforcement agencies utilize this system for tracking fugitive felons."

DataBridge Watch Hit

Matches that occur on watches can be delivered via one file daily or individual e-mails as they happen.

An individual watch hit e-mail for a parole violator.

What Can DataBridge Do?

- Query national booking data and photos from more than 1,600 jail facilities and 17 Departments of Correction
- Set up large lists of watches to be notified if a sex offender, probationer/parolee, non-custodial parent, or other wanted individual is booked into jail
- Extract a copy and receive timely updates of the national booking database for use in an analytical application, to help with statistical reporting and more
- Access local criminal justice systems being connected through Appriss' CJConnect service
